1. Background

a. The Engineering Duty Officer (1445 designator) has been qualified as a Ship Engineering Specialist, which includes specialists in Ships and Ship Systems Engineering, Electronic Systems Engineering, Combat/Weapons Systems Engineering, and Ordnance System Engineering.

b. Commander, Naval Sea Systems Command (COMNAVSEASYSKOM) shall recommend to Navy Personnel Command (NAVPERSKOM) individuals for change of designator from 1465 to 1445. NAVPERSKOM will initiate action to change the officer's designator to 1445 upon receipt of the candidate's request for a change of designator.

2. Qualifications. To qualify for 1445, the Inactive Duty Engineering Duty Officer (1465 or non-14x5 designator) must

a. possess a calculus-based Bachelor's degree as outlined in reference (a); and

b. complete the Navy Reserve Engineering Duty Officer Qualification Program (NR EDQP); and

c. obtain a Master's or higher level degree from an accredited college or university in an engineering or science field and submit proof of education. The details are outlined in reference (a).

3. Engineering Duty Officer Qualification Program Overview

a. The NR EDQP consists of three phases as follows:

Phase	Action Required
1	Completion of the Navy Reserve Engineering Duty Officer Basic Course at the Engineering Duty Officer School.
2	Completion of Qualification Training Plan.
3	Demonstration of thorough knowledge of Engineering Duty functions and functional areas through successful completion of an oral examination administered by the certifying officer designated by COMNAVSEASYSCOM. This examination will be given in the time allowed by reference (a).

b. Upon completion of the oral examination, the officer designated to administer the examination shall submit a letter of recommendation for qualification to COMNAVSEASYSCOM. COMNAVSEASYSCOM will review and certify the qualifications and make recommendations to Chief of Naval Personnel (CHNAVPERS), who will issue final approval.

c. COMNAVSEASYSCOM is responsible for maintaining an account of each officer's NR EDQP progress.
